Fear For Lives Of Crew On Coastwise Ship

SHIP BATTERED BY STORM AND HELPLESS OFF PACIFIC COAST

With its steering gear disabled, boats smashed and a raging storm blowing, the steam lumber schooner Claremont of San Francisco, is drifting helplessly in a leaking condition off the Columbia River lightship, according to word received late yesterday.

Fear for the safety of the twenty-five members of the crew was expressed in shipping circles here, inasmuch as it was felt that a severe gale which at one time yesterday blew at eighty miles an hour off the Northern Coast, put the vessel in extra peril.

The Claremont, owned by the Hartwood Lumber Company, left Willapa Harbor in the Columbia River region last Monday. She was bound for San Pedro with a cargo of lumber, much of which, it is feared, may be washed overboard by the angry seas.

Immediately after being disabled the Claremont sent out distress calls. Vessels started in her direction to render possible assistance. The members of the crew were reported as ready to take to the lifeboats in case the vessel did not weather the storm and started to sink.

The Claremont is of 1,291 gross tons and is in command of Captain J. Olsson.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—One hundred miles of the Alaskan Railway have been put out of commission, according to a telegraphic report received by Secretary Work today from Anchorage by an unusually severe rainstorm, combined with high tides.

No estimate of the damage was furnished by the report, which said the entire section between Seward and Potter had suffered from washouts and destroyed bridges.

Littleton Is Called To Stand

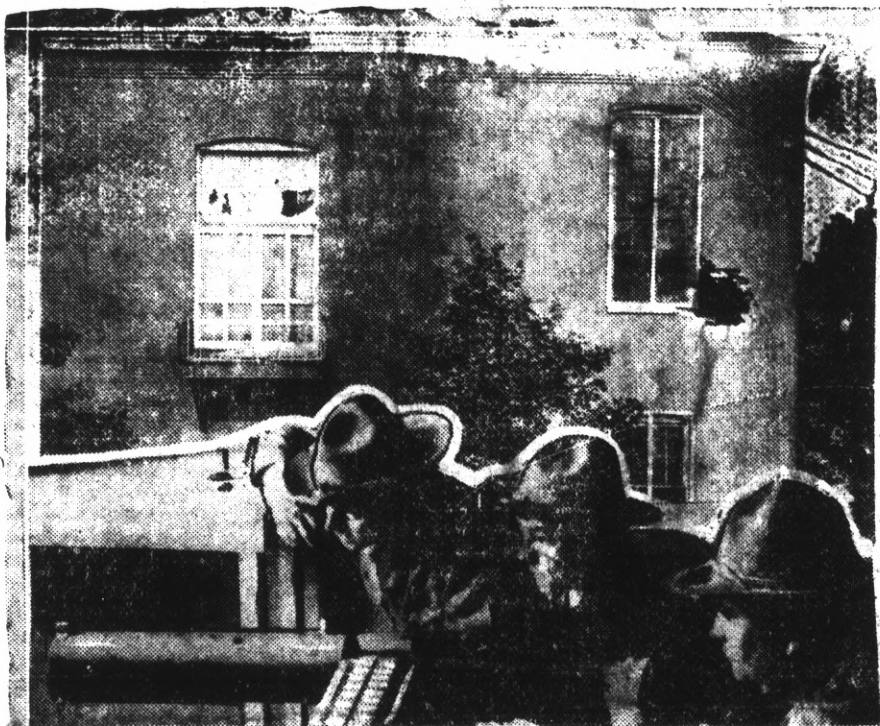

F. N. Littleton, accused former U. S. naturalization examiner, in the opening of his cross examination in the Federal court yesterday attributed his presence before the jury to jealousy and resentment against him on the part of M. Devington, his superior officer, because of his own unremitting efforts of 3 years to get the big plum of the official tree for himself and take it away from Devington.

Littleton told the jury that after he launched the campaign to become the chief in Devington's place the latter limited his activities to "typewriting" practically making an office boy of him. "I'll say I was pretty active" was Littleton's answer when Grover J. Fink, government prosecutor asked him if he was still after the post of the office in 1922.

Two Tankers Dock In Local Harbor

Two standard oil tankers docked at the local harbor yesterday. It was stated last night. One was the W. S. Miller, Badger, 39 hours from Los Angeles, which reached here at 4:30 p. m. The other was the Lubrico, Hansen, 40 hours from Los Angeles, which arrived here at 12:10 a. m.

Kentucky Jail Siege Ends; 3 Convicts Slain.

EDDYVILLE (Ky.)—Lower photo shows members of Company B, Fifty-fourth Kentucky machine gun squadron of Hopkinsville, Ky., in action firing from the administration building of the Western Kentucky State Penitentiary. The guardsmen aided in the 81 hour siege of three convicts who made an attempt to escape but who were chased to the mess hall which they held against the attacks of the troops and the prison guards. Three of the prison guards were killed and one wounded in the battle, which ended when the three convicts were killed by the machine gunners. Upper photo shows the bullet ridden mess hall building.

Ship Sugar Beets At Holland District

Three hundred fifty cars of sugar beets have been shipped from the Holland district on the line of the San Francisco and Sacramento Railroad this year, and indications are that there will be another 150 cars will be sent out before the end of the season it was reported yesterday. All of the beets are shipped to the Alameda Sugar Co., at Alvarado. All beets are being shipped from Lisbon station, the central shipping point in the district.

Encouraged by the success of beet growers in the district last season, more than three times the acreage was set out for this year's crop, and repeated success has encouraged others. As a result next year's production is expected to be staggering.

At Miller station, also on the lines of the San Francisco and Sacramento Railroad one thousand acres of beets will yield approximately 15,000 tons of beets. These will also be shipped to the Alameda Sugar Co. to be converted into beet sugar of the finest grades.

Farmers in the Liberty district are preparing to set out vast acreage to beets next season. Soil is particularly adapted to the growing of this product and promises are that the entire vicinity will become the greatest beet growing district in the state.

VISITS SISTER HERE

Mrs. M. B. Stocker and Miss Millie Brown of Pennsylvania, sisters of Mrs. Arthur Howell of 437 Golden Gate avenue, arrived at the home of the latter Sunday for an indefinite visit.

Plans Building Furniture Factory In Richmond in Immediate Future

Plans for cutting over 16,000 acres of valuable timber land in southern Mexico, floating the logs to Richmond where they are to be cut and used for the making of valuable furniture, were unfolded here yesterday by Charles Merz, Richmond man, who has just completed the details for the scheme, and is now searching for a suitable site for location of his factory here.

The timber is located in the isthmus of Tehantepec, and after being cut it will be taken by rail to Salmeruz, made into rafts and towed here by tugs, according to Merz.

"A factory for the production of furniture is to be located in Richmond," Merz said. "The timber is, for the most part, mahogany, ebony and teak. That which is unfit for the making of furniture will be sold. We already have a site chosen at San Diego where part of the timber will be landed and the major portion will be brought on here. For the past several years we have had a small factory in Mexico, where Chinese ebony furniture has been made."

Merz declared that between 200,000 and 1,000,000 board feet of lumber would be brought in here each trip by the company, the American Products company, of which he is principal owner. He stated that while timber would be brought here within six months time, it would probably be eighteen months before he could get the factory in running order, as the wood for the furniture had to be carefully air dried.

Merz, who formerly resided in San Francisco for many years, has been actively engaged in the formation and development of boys' and girls' athletic classes, and states that he intends to organize such classes in Richmond.

At the present time Merz is preparing for the press a journal regarding United States and Mexico, for the primary purpose, he stated, of aiding in developing a spirit of amity between the two countries.

WOODMAN PARTY SUCCESS

The Woodmen whist party given Monday night was a great success. The successful players were Mrs. E. Stocker, Arthur Johnson, E. P. Howard, J. E. Pimm and Mrs. Birch.

Richmond Legion Men in S.F. Parade

Richmond American Legion members joined with the 50,000 delegates from all states in the union and American possessions who marched up Market street in San Francisco yesterday morning as part of the big program planned for the national convention now being held.

The parade was one of the most brilliant ever witnessed in San Francisco, and was viewed by packing thousands who lined the streets for block upon block as the ex-service men filed by, some walking upright, head back with careless swing of arms—others limping painfully along with the aid of canes, suffering from wounds received in that gigantic world struggle—but all smiling merrily as they were cheered by the throngs of spectators.

A gentle mist was falling as the parade started, but before the last of the long procession had filed up Market street the sun came from behind the clouds and added its quota of real California weather to the gaiety of the occasion.

Pittsburg Places Ordered Closed

Two Pittsburg places have been ordered closed for one year by the local courts under statement proceedings instituted by District Attorney A. B. Tinning under provisions of the Volstead Act.

An order was issued by Superior Judge H. V. Alvarado yesterday. The suit was directed against Frank Bruno and others. Judge A. B. McKenzie also rendered a decision closing a place in Pittsburg known as "240 Cumberland Street". In the second action the suit was directed against Antonina Bruno and others.

RECEPTION TONIGHT

A reception will be given by Rev. and Mrs. W. P. Grant at the First M. E. church tonight. It was announced yesterday. The public has been cordially invited to attend.

ELKS PLAN FOR INSTALLATION OF NEW PITTSBURG LODGE SATURDAY

The largest gathering of Elks since the inception of the Richmond lodge will be present at Pittsburg, when a lodge is installed there on Saturday night, according to the officials of the Richmond Elks that will take part in the ceremonial.

Two hundred and fifty members of the Richmond lodge will leave here at 6:15 for the ceremonial, cars to be provided by the committee in charge, arriving in Pittsburg for the opening at 7:30 o'clock.

Alameda and Vallejo lodges have chartered boats and will go to the ceremonial by water, while Sacramento and Stockton members will have special trains taking them to Pittsburg.

Plans were brought nearer completion last night for the big ladies night and grand ball on October 26, the announcement being made that the National Grays orchestra has been secured for the occasion. The ball will be the "event of the season" for the ladies, the Elks say, and elaborate plans are being made for the decoration of the hall and distribution of Halloween favors to the Elks and their ladies.

Balloting will be held on October 30, and the next initiation will be held on November 13. It was announced last night, and the featured Grand Exalted Ruler, Dr. H. N. Rowell, will pay his official visit to the lodge the night of the initiation, it was stated.

Another big coming event in local circles is the annual Elks Charity show, the date set by the lodge last night as December 6 and 7. The entertainment this year will be put on by local talent entirely. "More than a score of Richmond's beautiful girls will take part in this striking performance," the Elks in charge announced last night, and the features of the program, including a cast of 85 people will be announced in the near future.

Officers of the Richmond lodge went to Alameda Monday night accompanied by 150 members, where the officers, put on the initiatory work for the Alameda lodge.

L. H. Chin Files Writ for New Trial

Notice of intention to ask a new trial was filed with the county clerk at Martinez yesterday by L. H. Chin and others, owners of property and a building at the Contra Costa-Alameda County line, which Superior Judge A. B. McKenzie recently adjudged a nuisance and against which he granted an injunction perpetually restraining gambling.

Suit against the establishment, alleged to have been conducted as a Chinese lottery den, was instituted by District Attorney A. B. Tinning. The notice of intention to ask a new trial contains the usual statutory grounds.

PLAN TURKEY WHIST PARTY

Catholic Ladies of St. Pauls church will hold a turkey whist party for the benefit of the church, Tuesday evening, November 20. In order to accommodate the unusual crowd expected to attend they have decided to hold their party in the Redmen's hall. Several live turkeys will be given away.

Makes Record Tax Collection On First Day

October 15 was a big day in the office of Tax Collector M. W. Joost.

It was the first day of tax collecting for this year and during the day, $21,350.51 was taken in over the county in taxes. The amount is four times as great as the money taken on the first day of collecting in 1922, the amount handled on that day being $5095.

The amount collected Monday is the largest amount ever collected by Joost since the first day of the first day of the tax collecting period.

SEEK SUPPORT FOR HOSPITAL

Committees are working hard securing the backing of residents for the Harding Memorial hospital, according to reports made last night at the meeting of the Richmond hospital association, and plans were made for spreading the work still wider.

A committee composed of Mrs. Evans, Aubrey Wilson and Mrs. C. F. Donnelly was appointed to get voters from each precinct to canvass from house to house explaining the need for such a hospital.

Mrs. Cole will have charge of the publicity work in the schools and Mrs. Clara Wilson will train a group of five minute speakers to speak before all commercial and civic bodies on the project.

The matter of a site was discussed but no more action taken on the matter.

It was decided to offer prizes for the best posters advocating the hospital made by high school students. The contest to be started immediately.

The Richmond Boy Scouts will be pressed into service to circulate circulars now being prepared and buttons will soon be ready to be broadcasted throughout the city to the voters favoring the measure.

Three Are Granted Divorce Decrees

The grist from the divorce mill on Monday at Martinez included three interlocutory decrees and one final.

Freda K. Waldorf was granted an interlocutory decree from Wm. D. Waldorf on grounds of cruelty. She was granted the custody of a minor child.

Desertion was charged by Emma H. Tingue who was granted a decree of divorce from Frank Tingue. Ethel M. Oliver was granted a divorce from Walter A. Oliver on grounds of cruelty.

M. Maye Brown was granted a final decree from L. O. Brown.

Pierce Giants and House Of David Nine To Play Here

The House of David baseball nine and the Pierce Colored Giants will meet in a contest to be played on the First street ball grounds on Sunday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock. It was announced here yesterday. The House of David nine is one of the best in the country among the traveling organizations, and will undoubtedly give the Giants a tough battle.

TEAM EXPECT TO SECURE $6,500 NEEDED TODAY; HAVE OVER $4,200

General W. D. Mason of the Y. M. C. A. campaign army presided over a meeting of the squads last night at the regular dinner meeting of the Men's Good Fellowship Club of the Presbyterian church, and after the reports of the captains had been compiled it was found that Major Percy Stanford's company was ahead with $2,597.50 pledged. Mayor W. W. Scott's army having secured $1,728.50, bringing the total to date to $4,326.

The committees were all jubilant and predicted that the required budget of $6,500 will be finished today. The drive has gone ahead swiftly, General Mason says, and the people have responded generously to the plea of the Y. M. C. A. for aid.

Following the reports of the committees the Brotherhood held its regular business meeting and dinner program, having the members of the Y. M. C. A. committees as guests for the evening.

Dr. Carol Aronovitch, city planning consultant for Berkeley, addressed the Brotherhood on the work of the planning commissions and methods for securing the best results in planning a city. Dr. Aronovitch is assisting in the work of planning portions of Richmond.

F. C. Bibbins provided the musical portion of the program with a number of clarinet solos, accompanied by Carl Richards.

Will Ship 600 Tons Of Walnuts Soon

WALNUT CREEK, Oct. 16.—Six hundred tons of walnuts will be shipped to the east by the Contra Costa County Walnut Growers' Association. This is just twice the tonnage shipped last year. All of the nuts are of the finest size, color and texture.

According to the traffic department of the Sacramento Short Line, which is handling the entire crop, the nuts will arrive in the east for the early holiday trade. There is a great demand there for the Contra Costa grown varieties, officials report.

The nuts are brought by the growers to the packing and grading warehouse on the line of the railroad and there are sorted as to size and quality. They are also bleached to the most desirable color and are shipped in 100-pound sacks.

Contra Costa Walnut Growers' Association is now handling the bulk of all nuts grown in the vicinity.

Activity is also manifest at the warehouse of the Contra Costa Farmers' Association warehouse. This property was recently acquired doubling the grain storage capacity of the organization.

Packing and pickling of tomatoes is in full blast. The California Pickle and Sauce Company is caring for an unusually large pack. This firm was formerly known as the Kirsten Packing Company. Tomatoes from all the growers in the vicinity are purchased and packed, either as solid pack tomatoes or in the form of tomato catsup or sauce. This is the first year the new concern has been operating, but its output is almost double that heretofore handled by other concerns in the vicinity.

ELECTRICITY —the fuel of conservation

POWER companies do not despoil or waste the state's natural resources. They merely use the force of falling water to turn a wheel in order to make electric energy. Thus fuel is saved, and the public gets the benefit in lower rates fixed by the public's agent, the Railroad Commission. The water so used is turned back to the bed of the stream undiminished and unimpaired. The streams are thus harnessed for the public's service. That is true conservation.

Richmond To Be Given Chance To Buy Carquinez Bridge Securities

Securities of the Carquinez bridge are to be marked here, it was announced yesterday by Douglas Boswell, son of the late Levi Boswell of this city, following the arrival of fiscal representatives of the American Toll-Bridge company.

"The Carquinez Bridge is entirely financed, the issue of stock having been underwritten by a large eastern syndicate a long time ago. Work is going forward rapidly on the bridge following the Anchor Day celebration of several weeks ago. Not a dollar of stock need be sold in California to make the bridge a fact."

"However, the officials of the American Toll-Bridge Company, hearing on all sides the disappointment of local people—many of whom worked hard for the realization of the bridge project—at being unable to obtain Carquinez Bridge Securities, obtained a limited allotment from the eastern financial house for offering in the West."

Fred Poss, well-known Oaklander with whom Boswell is associated, offers the following comments on the subject of the Carquinez Bridge itself. "Of all localities Contra Costa County should benefit most from the construction of 'America's Greatest Bridge,' as the Carquinez Bridge has been aptly termed.

"It means increased travel through the county in all directions, by California motorists and tourists—travel that will bring large sums of new money and new people into the territory.

"And the bridge itself, during the time it is being completed will enrich the county, for four million dollars are to be expended in its construction.

"From the investment standpoint the people here are especially fortunate. Here, at their very doors, they have one of the country's greatest building projects and investment opportunities, where they can watch it grow and come into full earning capacity.

"It is to be regretted that the allotment of shares in the bridge for this section is so limited but the investors of Contra Costa County

LEAGUE EXECUTIVES TO MEET

Rev. Frank K. Baker will entertain the executives of the Epworth League of the M. E. Church Thursday evening at his home at 330
Eighteenth street at 8:45 p. m.

This will be special meeting in order to plan a Halloween party and to give the reports of the standing committees. All officers are expected to attend.

Alleghany Section
Developments Are Reported Here

Rapid developments are being made at the Alleghany mining section, according to local residents who are interested in the district. It is reported that from the increasing number of mills and the heavy gold shipments to the mint, the camp may soon justly claim the honor of being the premier gold camp of the American continent. There are eleven stamp mills in operation today, and several more are planned.

Silence at Sixteen-to-One While a strict silence is maintained at the offices of the Sixteen-to-One mine, observant miners say that it is the richest gold mine in the world. No one knows outside of the property owners what is the actual production of gold. While the mint returns at the end of the year will give some idea, it is known that there is a great reserve of high-grade ore kept at the mine, the value of which may run into the millions. Several houses are being built at the property to accommodate the miners.

Within a few weeks the new mill
at the Contact mine will be ready for operation. Power development is being arranged for by the Gold Wedge Divide Mining Company, and a crew under Ambrose Madden is exploring the ledge.

At the Kate Hardy mine ten stamps are dropping on good ore taken from a raise. Manager C. E. Trebona is planning to run a crosscut from the main tunnel, 800 feet from the portal, to thoroughly explore the ore-bodies, and to also sink the present winze from the main tunnel to its hanging wall.

Supplies and equipment for a steady winter run are being received at the Twin Sisters property, where a high-grade arsenical ledge was cut while cleaning out an old drift.

At a meeting of the directors of the Tightner Mines Company September 20th, Edmund Letts Oliver was elected president, Dr. C. P.
Jones, vice-president, and John Mulroy, secretary-treasurer. The company has been enjoined from accepting the final $100,000 payment for the Tightner mine from the Alleghany Mining Company.

In the Wovneville district, tunnel and gravel activities are steadily increasing. After years of work, pay gravel has been opened up by a drift from the bottom of the shaft in the Gibraltar mine, and pieces of gold weighing an ounce have been taken from the washing flume. Driv-

Ship Delayed In Reaching Richmond

Word was received yesterday by Harbor Master J. H. Misner that the S. S. Roxen, due to arrive in Richmond harbor Thursday will not dock until Monday.

No reason was given for the change in plans.

Misner reports that no word has been received from the Government dredger since it went into drydock for repairs. The vessel was scheduled to be ready for use in a week and is expected to appear any day.

The engineers have been on the ground for some time and everything is ready for the dredger to go to work.

ins of the tunnel on the Deal property at Rattlesnake is to be resumed. The Excelsior tunnel near Forest has been driven in 130 feet.

William R. Maloney has bonded the old Oxford quartz mine, which yielded good returns years ago when worked through a glory hole. H. H.
Ray is reported to have obtained a bond on the Indian Hill hydraulic gravel property, and Harold Dardier of Los Angeles is negotiating for a bond on the Shamrock quartz claims
north of Loganville.

CALIFORNIA

"America's Greatest Bridge"—across Car-quinez Straits—will be about two-thirds of a mile long, with sufficient roadway for four cars to pass abreast. It eliminates the present barrier to uninterrupted motor travel between all the world and the Bay region.

Cars from Everywhere

will cross the Carquinez Bridge

MOTOR TRAVEL—north, east, south and west—to and from the Bay region—tourists visiting California and desirous of seeing the wonders of Northern and Central California
—will use the Carquinez Bridge paying tolls, building dividends
for the American Toll Bridge company.

Richmond and the surrounding communities will be among the principal cities to benefit from the operation of what is being termed
"America's Greatest Bridge"—now being built across Carquinez Straits.

You know what a remarkable business the present Rodeo-Vallejo ferry is doing. You have seen hundreds of cars waiting an opportunity to cross the straits—you have waited for hours yourself, not once but many times. Last year this ferry carried 319,917 automobiles and 894,212 passengers. For the first 9 months of this year 307,577 automobiles and 821,691 passengers traveled across Carquinez Straits by this ferry.

Can you imagine the business this bridge will do, open for travel 24 hours a day, all the year round?

It is conservatively estimated that motor travel will at least double, if not treble, over present figures with the opening of the bridge to motor traffic.

Many of the people of Richmond
worked for the Carquinez Bridge
when it was first conceived. Now that is a fact you will want to be a shareholder in it, to participate in the profits it will earn. Here, at your very door is an enterprise of national importance—one that you can invest in and watch in every stage of its development.

You know exactly in what you are investing. You can get complete details of the investment opportunity

GIFT OF THE DESERT

RANDALL PARRISH

Copyright by A. C. McClurg & Co.

Then she saw something just ahead of her—a dim, indefinable shadow, which seemed to move. It was so hideous, so grotesque and shapeless, her very heart stood still with terror. The girl sank to her knees, trembling, with no eyes for anything except that mysterious moving object. Miss Chapman, huge, looming oddly through the gloom, it was advancing steadily toward her—a formless, something which resembled neither man nor beast.

CHAPTER XIII

The Border Patrol.

Deborah rose timidly to her feet, her heart beginning to beat once more, but not with fear. Forth from the darkness came the low whinny of a horse in sudden recognition, while as instantly that horrid shadow took both shape and form. It was a horse, saddled, bridled, the rein trailing along the sand, one of the two animals stampeded by the shot which had killed Kelleen. He had sensed her coming in the desert night, and was even then dumbly welcoming her. The girl went forward slowly, doubtfully, fearful of again startling the animal into flight, but he remained quiet, sniffing at her as she drew near, and, she finally put her hand on the dangling rein. It was the horse Kelleen had ridden, and Deborah hid her face in his mane and cried softly, while he turned and rubbed his muzzle against her shoulder in silent greeting. It seemed too good to be true; as though God had led her every step of the way. The sudden reaction left her weak as a child.

Yet she must go on; there was more cause now than ever before to go on—more hope of success. She made the effort twice, before she succeeded in dragging herself up into the saddle, but the horse stood patiently, making no attempt to break away. Once there, with the girl's strength came back, and with it her determination. All was still, deathly still; not a breath of air touched her cheek; the dense night shut them in. Carefully she looked about her, and there a patch of grass visible, yet she was faithful to it. Half afraid, yet not daring to venture otherwise, she drew the horse about and rode south.

The night seemed endless, the black desert eternal. There were times when the girl lost consciousness of everything, except that shining North Star ever at her back. It was her own guide and hope; through it she retained sanity and faith. In that way lay box canyon and those waiting troopers. She dare not ride fast, knowing not what pitfalls were ahead, the horse picked his way intelligently, the reins lying loose, except as she occasionally held him inexorably to the southward. She swayed wearily in the saddle, clinging to the high pommel for support, unable to see, yet aware that they crossed shallow ravines, and found passage occasionally along ridges of outcropping rock, and then advanced more easily for long spaces over wide expanses of sand, noiselessly as a specter. It was hard to keep awake, to concentrate, to remember—she had to struggle to realize this was not all a dream.

Then, after seemingly endless hours, the dawn came. Would she ever again forget it? She hardly knew at first what it was. Riding dreamily with lowered head, she became dimly aware of a change, a lightning of the gloom about, a dull grayness tinged faintly the black wall of the surrounding night. Almost as she wondered, the daylight came, wan and spectral at first, widening slowly, then faded from out a multicolored sky. To the left a brightening, white light shot up in long streamers, touching with more gaudy tinges the edges of fleecy clouds, while in the other direction a purple haze blended with the deeper shadows along the horizon. It was the coming of the sun, rising majestically above the far-off rim of the desert, and she was still moving southward; through the long night hours she had kept the faith.

Yet there was little of hope, of encouragement, in the picture unrolled before her. Her view gradually spread out in wider and wider circles, but with no relief to the drear scenes of leagues of sand, stretched wherever her weary eyes turned, leveled by the wind, or cast upward in rounded hillocks, but every gray, depressing, sea of desolation, dead, unmovable, extending to the far circle of the over-shadowing arch of sky. It was all lifeless, not even a sagebrush or Spanish bayonet visible. Doubts assailed her. Had she taken the right course? Did Kelleen imply that Box canyon lay directly south and had she been led astray, and thus wandered blindly out into the very heart of the desert?

Could she, could the horse live through such a day of torture as that, rising and falling, helplessly, hopelessly, the girl dropped down wearily in the saddle, closing her eyes to the desolation. They closed on drearily, her mind a chaos, haunted by every memory of horror arising from those swift-occurring events which had led to this tragedy. Her forcible marriage to Rob Meager, the bitter hatred his touch had aroused, his drunken, lustful eyes, the blow she struck him, with murder in her heart, the feeling like a hunted criminal, desperately seeking escape. Then the coming of Kelleen into her life, strangely, mysteriously weaving about her a web of fascination, even as they rode to the darkness. She had never entirely thrown that off, the odd spell of his presence, his cool, confident words—she felt she never would. Even when she questioned him the most, she still secretly believed; and now that he was actually dead, not so much as the flicker of a doubt remained.

She saw again that dead man in the cave; experienced the grip of those savage arms, and once more, in heedless terror, fired down the black tunnel, and then struggled upward through that awful hole into the light of day. Then all that followed, followed so swiftly, was but a jumble of events, yet each distinct, unforgettable, burned on her soul. True! it could not be true! It must be delirium, a wild fiction of romance raging in the brain of a half-mad dreamer. Yet this was the desert—the desert! She lifted her eyes to look, gazing out blindly over the dull gray expanse. What was it over yonder? A tree? A ridge of uplifted rock? Not much, surely, and yet everything in midst of that solitude. Her heart beat suddenly with hope. Perhaps that marked the end; perhaps that was where the trail ran—the trail to Box canyon. If so, God was good!

The tired horse lifted his head, and whinnied, breaking into a slow trot, the sand crunching under his hoofs. Deborah was wide awake now, alert and ready. Yet it actually was a tree, and the tops of others began to show beyond; their presence promised water, grass, life; that horrid desert left behind. Yet it was a long, dreary ride of an hour before they reached there, coming to a shallow valley through which trickled a mere rill, rock strewn and almost as desolate as had been the desert itself, but with riden, and there a patch of grass visible, and a few scattered, wind-racked trees. It was a scene scarcely less dreary than the upper plain, yet to Deborah and her horse was most welcome.

What Was It Over Yonder?

The latter came down the slanting bank gingerly and made for the nearest water hole, the girl slipping quickly from the saddle and seeking to quench her thirst farther upstream. The water, slightly brackish, but still fairly clear and pure, brought new life, the animal wandering about in this fresh environment, nibbling contentedly at the scattered tufts of grass, while Deborah studied her surroundings with awakened interest. Old Tom Meager, in their rides to the desert, had taught her some of the fundamentals of plainscraft, how to observe this thing and that, when these lessons eagerly, searching for some evidence of that trail which she was convinced must run up this lonely valley. Nothing could be better adapted to the purpose of these outskies. To the left a brightening, white light shot up in long streamers, touching with more gaudy tinges the edges of fleecy clouds, while in the other direction a purple haze blended with the deeper shadows along the horizon. It was the coming of the sun, rising majestically above the far-off rim of the desert, and she was still moving southward; through the long night hours she had kept the faith.

Yet there was little of hope, of encouragement, in the picture unrolled before her. ASSOCIATION WILL RENEW VICTORY HIGHWAY SIGNS

Ninety per cent of the signs along the Victory Highway from Kansas City to the California line are damaged and 20 per cent of them so mutilated that they will have to be replaced, according to James W. Johnson, chief engineer of the California State Automobile association, who returned last week from a long trip over the route.

Johnson covered the entire Victory Highway as far east as Kansas City checking up on the condition of the yellow diamond road signs which the association maintains on this transcontinental route for the guidance of motor tourists. With the use of the data he gathered on the trip new signs will be manufactured and the entire route will be put in shape for tourist travel next spring.

While nine out of ten signs are damaged, it will be necessary to replace only about one fifth of them Johnson said yesterday. The rest can be repaired by the maintenance crews which will go over the system early next spring.

Johnson attributed most of the destruction of the Victory Highway signs to the activities of small boys who used them as targets for rifles or stones. Road signs through the territory traversed by the Victory Highway are almost a curiosity, Johnson said, those erected by the California State Automobile association being practically the only ones in much of the country.

Two years have elapsed since the Victory Highway was originally signed by the Automobile association. Johnson announced that the work of bringing system along this route up to date was in line with the association's policy of providing a well marked highway from the middle west into northern and central California.

The Tie That Binds

THE UNITED STATES is a nation of far reaching relationships. Urged onward by new opportunities in a land of boundless resources, families have separated more than in any other land. Few men live where their fathers or grandfathers lived. Domestic ties stretch between communities widely scattered.

Commerce and industry, too, have the same spread of interests.

Though the nation is a federation of states, their boundaries form no barriers to trade. In business and social life, as well as in government, the nation has become a great community.

Hence there is a natural demand for telephone service that has no narrower boundaries than those of the country itself. Such a nation-wide service can be given only through an organization having a uniform policy by means of which all its distant activities can be joined together.

The Bell System provides such a service to meet the needs of a united people.
